Contenders for our Country

SIGNERS OF THE DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE

Signer #13: William Williams (1721-1793)

Connecticut. Age at signing: 45

Married: Mary (3 children)

Occupation: Merchant

Quotes & Notes:

His grandfather and father were pastors for over 50 years. Williams College was named after his uncle Ephraim. About William:

Mr. Williams was a man of piety: he entertained the religious opinions of the Congregationalists, of which communion he became a member in his youth, and through the course of a long life he never varied from his professions . . . He preserved, unblemished, in his Christian character, conduct, and conversation. The high opinion which his brethren of the church entertained . . . may be inferred from his election, when he was a young man, to the office of deacon, an office he retained until his death.

He honored the sacred ordinances, and was a strict attendant at church; his liberality towards clergymen, and all religious, charitable and missionary societies, was very conspicuous.

Though rigid in religious opinions, he was free from bigotry, and loving all real Christians, conscientiously maintained that every man ought to worship the Creator after his own heart. At the close of his life, being deprived in a great measure by the enjoyments and benefits of life by his deafness, he spent a great portion of his time in reading, meditation, and prayer.

An Impossible Probability

Within the short span of 24 hours, when Christ was crucified, around 30 Messianic prophecies were fulfilled. The probability that all these happened by chance on that day has been calculated at 1 in 537,000,000!

A chaplain was speaking to a soldier on a cot in a hospital. "You have lost an arm in the great cause," said the chaplain. "No," said the soldier with a smile. "I didn't lose it - I gave it."
